

CLAIMING MARKS FROM THE NAATI CCL EXAM

NAATI CCL exam allows hopeful migrants to claim extra 5 points from the immigration point test. This is not a new element for the Australia migration visa system and this has been there throughout.

The COVID pandemic has caused many adverse impacts for ongoing visa applications mainly due to the long processing holdup the immigration executed on acceptance of state nomination applications. Some applicants are currently facing skills point's reductions due to various circumstances that are technical and specific to the prevailing migration law. Further some of the applicants find it hard to meet the tight entrance points requirements the regions impose. So NAATI CCL exam would possibly bypass such tricky situations mentioned above and helps candidates to enhance their marks followed by a very lenient examination process.

The Credentialed Community Language Test (CCL) is an assessment of language abilities at a community level and is administered by the National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters Ltd (NAATI).
