

SOUTH AUSTRALIA NOMINATION-IMPORTANT ADVICE FOR SA APPLICANTS

This is about the SA s ROI process and as a result of the recent communication we conducted with the SA officials, we found that the applicants are not allowed for multiple ROI submissions at a time, and it should be only one at a time.

Example:

If you have already lodged a ROI targeting the 491-nomination stream and apparently noticed that your intended occupation also is listed under 190 PR stream and you get encouraged to opt 190 nomination stream as your most preferred option, to lodge a fresh ROI under 190 stream, you must firstly withdraw your former 491 ROI application and proceed with the 190 stream.

The decision of Shifting from 491 to 190 has its own advantages and the disadvantages. It is a serious decision and a risky option one would choose.

Below are the reasons

1- 491 nomination stream is the most favourable visa pathway by the immigration authorities due to it is being famous to be a visa subclass that doesn't allow applicants to demand various facilities from the Australian government up to a certain stage upon their arrival. So, the welcoming rate would be very much higher for 491 visa entrants than 190s.

2- 190 nomination grants would be controlled by a specific and an obvious critical selection criteria due to it s nature as it will be approached by a set of applicants with striking points scales. Many applicants with appealing marks cross leading points rudiments would compete for a limited number of nomination places would make it harder to win the game.

3- Getting tensed and taking sudden decisions to change the visa streams frequently, mainly with SA and NSW nomination programs, might create adverse results. Our advice and recommendation is to stay still with one stable mind to face the migration challenges ahead.
